Bromwich, David	The "Ode to Duty" and the Idea of Human Solidarity	9
Burwick, Frederick	The Revolt of Islam: Vegetarian Shelley and the Narrative of Mental Pathology	87
Byrne, Joseph	Wordsworth, Joseph Johnson, and the Salisbury Plain Poems	103
Class, Monika	Coleridge and the Radical Roots of Critical Philosophy	51
Douglass, Paul	Twisty Little Passages: The Editions of Lady Caroline Lamb's Glenarvon	77
Duggett, Tom	"Some Unknown Man, Unheard of": Wordsworth and the English Regicide	111
Esterhammer, Angela	Translating the Elgin Marbles: Byron, Hemans, Keats	29
Gaull, Marilyn	Joseph Johnson: Webmaster	107
Gravil, Richard	Helen Maria Williams: Wordsworth's Revolutionary Anima	55
	Grasmere, 1970-2010	2
Harding, Anthony John	Harriet Martineau's Anti-Romanticism	22
Johnston, Kenneth R.	The Unromantic Lives of Others: The Lost Generation of the 1790's	67
Jung, Sandro	William Newton: Anna Seward's "Peak Minstrel"	113
Oliver, Susan	Silencing Joseph Johnson and the Analytical Review	96
Paley, Morton	Coleridge's Captain Derkheim	82
Robinson, Eric	John Clare, the Popular Wood-Cut, and the Bible: A Venture into the History of Popular Culture	121
Stabler, Jane	"True Impossibility": Editing Byron	73
Thompson, Judith	Why Kendal? John Thelwall, Laker Poet?	16
Wright, Julia M.	Atlantic Exile and the Stateless Citizen in Irish Romanticism	36
Yorimich Kasahara	Byron's Dying Gladiator in Context	44

From Susan Wolfson, President of the Association of Literary Scholars, Critics, and Writers (ALSCW), a special invitation to members of the Wordsworth-Coleridge Association to join at the permanent rate of $37.00 a year.

Devoted to the reading, writing and discussion of literature, criticism, and scholarship, since 1994, ALSCW has annually convened scholars, critics, translators, poets, novelists, dramatists, essayists, editors, teachers, and audiences for literature many languages, ancient and modern, a conversation continued in the tri-quarterly Literary Imagination (founded in 1999, published by OUP, which offers a discount to members on all its publications)and in the quarterly newsletter, Literary Matters.

The annual conference will take place on November 4 to 7, 2010, at Princeton, N.J., a gathering of academic scholars and critics, Pulitzer Prize poets, novelists, biographers, journalists, librarians, bibliographers, booksellers, editors of major journals and publishing houses, educators, graduate students, and professors—a whirl of energy and expertise interacting for three days of seminars, special sessions, lectures, electric readings, and conversation.

For information, membership, and publications, see http://www.bu.edu/literary ?or alsc@bu.edu or ALSCW, 650 Beacon Street, Suite 510, Boston, Ma. 02215, Phone: 617 358 1990.